To whom it may concern:

Various companies providing web hosting and domain registration have been employed during the four years that we have been designing websites. None of them have ever reached the high quality customer service and technical support that Titan have consistently delivered. Subsequently all of our accounts have been or are in the process of being transferred to Titan Internet.

We value not only the reasonably priced services that Titan offer, but also their high level of technical support. They are very enlightening to a company such as ours that has little to do with the technical goings on of the Internet. All of our enquiries are handled promptly and with a great deal of patience, flair and grace.

Whilst Titan offer very good products they don't suffocate us with a hard and intrusive sales pitch - something that is appreciated a great deal.

Titan are the most professional and friendly hosting company we have ever had the pleasure to deal with.

I happily recommend Titan to customers, friends, colleagues and complete strangers.

Yours faithfully,

Angela Cook,
