RE Titan Internet

I would describe myself as an online entrepreneur.

I earn my living online and therefore depend on Titan to ensure that my sites run quickly and with maximum uptime.

Without this I loose customers and income.

I have been with other hosts in the past, initially drawn in by apparently cheap deals.

To my cost however I discovered that poor performance and lack of proper support were costing me money in lost custom and damaging the reputation of my sites.

Fortunately I made the decision to move to Titan Hosts.

As a result my sites now run quickly and smoothly and there have been no problems to date. A load of over 500,000 page impressions a month is delivered quickly and smoothly to my viewers.

Titan has also given me a lot more technical features such as a very powerful mailing list system and excellent site statistics and reporting.

Personally what I like about Titan is the sense of scalability and great support.

Would you believe that other hosts force you to move once you generate traffic!

I would advise anyone to set them selves up from the start with a hosting company that will let them expand as their business expands. Don't fall into the same trap I did and find yourself having to relocate and configure a whole site just as your ideas start to generate traffic and success for your site.

Go for quality from the start. Titan are quality.

Support is excellent. The ethos being flexibility, accommodation and quick response.

Titan have gone well beyond the call of duty in helping and advising me on technical matters.

If you are looking for a dependable, honest and speedy host for your online venture, then I can not recommend Titan highly enough.
